LIGHTNIN' STRIKE™

Automatic Hook-Set Rod Holders

After seven years of retirement, the inventor of the StingRay™ Hydrofoil Stabilizer* is returning to the industry with his latest patent pending invention, the innovative LIGHTNIN' STRIKE™ Hook Set Rod Holder.

StingRay™

In folded position*

The new rod holder offers anyone who likes to fish an opportunity to catch more fish, with less missed strikes, or worse, lost tackle.

Anglers may use the new product while fishing from the bank, from a dock, or from a boat while drifting or trolling. All types of bait-casting and spinning rigs fit easily into the rod holder, and setting the trigger allows anglers to set several rods out, and not miss that quick strike. Simple to use, the Lightnin' Strike features an adjustable trigger to allow the fisherman to set the sensitivity of the hook set.

Whether you're fishing for crappie with the optional spider rigging (the T-Bone™ trolling bar system holds four Lightnin' Strike rod holders, and the Half-Rack™ trolling bar holds two) or walleye, catfish, trout, or stripers, the Lightnin' Strike is sure to offer more success on every trip.

T-Bone & Half-Rack

When the Lightnin' Strike rod holder is not in use it can be easily removed and stored in the optional Storage Bag.

The new rod holder easily fits all Lil' Pro Driftmaster® mounting bases, in addition to the ground stake kit (sold separately) and features a lifetime replacement guarantee against breakage. Look for them this summer in premier fishing tackle retailers and catalogs nationwide.
